CULINARY POP UPS AT THE MANOR

KOLAHOI - Wazwan from Kashmir

While Indian Accent moves to its new abode at The Lodhi, Old World Hospitality offers a series of culinary Pop – Ups at The Manor. First of the series is KOLAHOI - Kashmiri Wazwan, from the kitchens of Chor Bizarre.

The Wazwan is a true gourmet's pilgrimage into the realms of a cuisine and a culture that is difficult to replicate, out of Kashmir. At The Manor, we are attempting to bring a slice of it to our diners.

The ceremonial Wazwan is served in intricately carved platters called 'taramis' as you sit on the ground on comfortable cushions or on the table. Each successive course is served leisurely, to allow you to savour its distinct flavour. The meal (over a dozen dishes) ends with fragrant Kahwah served from the 'Samovar' and its aroma leaves you with lingering memories of the Wazwan and of a paradise called Kashmir...

Rohit Khattar, Chairman, Old World Hospitality said, “Kashmiri Cuisine has always been our forté and we were the first to bring it to Delhi in 1990 with Chor Bizarre. Since Indian Accent is now moving to The Lodhi, we intend bringing chefs and cuisines from across the world for these Pop Ups, the tenure of which may vary depending upon their popularity. We look forward to a new chapter at The Manor.”

To begin with, it was thought that this was the perfect space and the season to showcase the traditional Kashmiri Wazwan. While Chor Bizarre also serves a selection of Kashmiri Dishes, Kolahoi will offer a more comprehensive selection. ‘Kolahoi’ was the really popular bar and restaurant at Broadway Cinema, in Srinagar. So there is a nostalgic reason for the name.

Chef Rajeev Malhotra, Corporate Chef, Indian Cuisine, Old World Hospitality who also heads Chor Bizarre, shall run the restaurant along with his chefs and Kashmiri Wazas.
